What are we actually asking the board to decide?

WHAT THE RECORD SHOWS — EVERY CLAIM CITED OR MARKED

The draft pre-read asks the board to 'support the growth plan' — inside it: the VP hire (register #22), the vendor spend (register #24), and a September launch.

“We ask the board's support for the growth plan. (Inside: the VP hire, register #22; the vendor spend, register #24; a September launch.)”

m07-020 · DRAFT PRE-READ · JUL 22

The board was told September on June 4; engineering plans to October 1 (#platform, Jul 15).

“We are tracking to a September launch.”

m06-004 · FOUNDER · BOARD PRE-READ · JUN 4

“Working plan lands integration-complete on October 1.”

m07-009 · ENGINEERING LEAD · #PLATFORM · JUL 15

Two dates for the same launch are about to be in the same room.

MARKED AS INFERENCE

Two dates for the same launch are about to be in the same room. Neither document references the other.

CONTRADICTION ON THE RECORD

“Tracking to a September launch.” BOARD PRE-READ · JUN 4	“Working plan lands integration-complete on October 1.” #PLATFORM · JUL 15
The date the board holds and the date the company plans to are six weeks apart.

WHAT HAPPENED LAST TIME

— Both prior pre-reads in the record asked for blessing of a narrative, not a decision.

— Both meetings produced advice and no resolution (outcome notes), and both asks came back a quarter later.

“Both prior pre-reads asked the board to bless a narrative. Both sets of minutes record advice and no resolution; both asks returned a quarter later.”

WHAT'S MISSING

— One decidable question.

— Evidence links behind the three assumptions the skeptical director challenged last time (named in the June 4 minutes).

— An owner for what happens after yes.

“Director: show me the evidence behind the three growth assumptions.”

RECOMMENDATION

Reconcile the launch date before the pre-read goes out — a board deciding on a date the company isn't using is worse than a slip. Then ask one question: approve the vendor spend and the hire. Not 'the plan.'

CORRECTIONS — APPEND-ONLY, WITH NAMES ON THEM

No corrections recorded on this entry. When one is made, it is an attributed, timestamped event in an append-only record — never a silent edit.

How to read this brief: every claim above traces to a quoted source message (message ID · role · channel · date), to a register entry, or is explicitly marked as inference or detected absence. Nothing is smoothed over. This document is illustrative — one shared fictional company, people shown as roles — and contains no customer data. In a pilot, this brief is built from your own exported conversations.
